John, Concerning the possible menthol brands that you and I discussed this morning. We were talking about it later this afternoon and according to the procedure we have to follow, the sampling has to be from 50 packs. We discussed that this could be handled in two possible ways. You could go to another county if necessary to locate the product or purchase more than four packs at the stores in which the product could be found. Our procedure is that we sample 2 cigarettes from each pack for a total of 100 cigarettes in order to do the required testing. If you think this is definitely going to be an issue, get back with me and I will find out the way it would have to be handled. We discussed going to more than 5 retail stores to find the product but I can not remember discussing what has to be done if the product could not be found in at least five retail stores.
